Chair Message

Dear Members & Partners,

As 2025 comes to a close, I extend my sincere gratitude to each of you. Reflecting on what we achieved together this year, and looking ahead to 2026, I am reminded that PROFOH's strength lies in a committed community that continues to act with purpose, even amid uncertainty.

Despite visible and invisible challenges, PROFOH remained steady in its mission. I am proud that our organization is a signatory to the Pact for the Future adopted by all 193 United Nations Member States, reaffirming our belief in cooperation and shared responsibility.

Our participation in the IMF and World Bank Group Spring and Annual Meetings in Washington, DC, alongside engagements in Rome at the Common Alerting Protocol Implementation Workshop and in Seville at the Fourth International Conference on Financing for Development, TB conference in London, Founders Summit in Germany, strengthened PROFOH's international presence and partnerships. These moments reinforced a simple truth - global challenges demand collective solutions, and no country stands alone.

During the year, PROFOH provided financial support to two United Nations agencies, the World Health Organization (WHO) and the United Nations Office for the Coordination of Humanitarian Affairs (OCHA) also would like commend the United Nations on its 80th anniversary and welcome the Secretary-General's decision to relocate key departments to Africa in 2026, a step toward a more inclusive and people-centered multilateral system.

My deepest appreciation goes to our global team and partners for delivering medical outreaches in Ghana and Nigeria, and to PROFOH Germany for its ongoing reorganization and leadership supporting TB and HIV initiatives in Nigeria. I also thank our Executive Director Dr. Gbemutor Kama, for his steady leadership, advancing our mission, sustaining key partnerships, and ensuring PROFOH remained visible and impact despite funding constraints.

Humanitarian work may be under strain, but its purpose endures. As we move into 2026, I invite us all to strengthen that purpose with resolve and humility, so the promise of PROFOH, since 1998, continues to reach the communities we serve.

On behalf of PROFOH, I wish you happy holidays and a hopeful New Year.

Warm regards.

Executive Director's Message

Dear Members & Supporters,

I am proud to share PROFOH's Annual Report as we reflect on 2025. It was a demanding year for our organization, marked by both profound challenges and meaningful achievements. Despite reduced funding, PROFOH remained steadfast in its mission to advance quality healthcare for vulnerable populations, improve access to safe drinking water, and support education at the community level.

During the year, we participated in nine international conferences across Washington DC, Spain, Italy, UK, Switzerland, Germany and other locations, strengthening our global partnerships and visibility. Together with partners, PROFOH conducted medical outreaches in Ghana and Nigeria and continued implementing its Tuberculosis (TB) project through a Community-Led Monitoring approach, ensuring services are inclusive, responsive, and grounded in community realities.

We commend the World Health Organization for establishing the Hub for Pandemic and Epidemic Intelligence in Berlin, which continues to strengthen global preparedness through innovation, including an updated AI-powered platform now used by more than 110 countries to detect and monitor emerging public health threats.

We remain committed to advancing mental health as a fundamental human right. With over one billion people worldwide living with mental health conditions and limited access to care, PROFOH and our partner, Stand Up for Women in New York, will host an international mental health workshop in early 2026, alongside ongoing engagement with the Turkish Ministry of Health for a mental health mission in Inegöl, Turkey.

In 2026, we will prioritize capacity-building and training in collaboration with the European Center for Leadership and Entrepreneurship Education. While PROFOH UK operations were suspended due to technical issues, we have initiated the incorporation of PROFOH Finland, laying a strong foundation for future growth.

We remain committed to our shared journey toward quality healthcare and human development for all. Thank you for your continued trust and support.

Best regards.

SELECTED HIGHLIGHTS AT A GLANCE:

Participated in the Global Report on Trafficking in Persons, Vienna – Austria

In the past, at several international forums and gatherings, we highlighted the medical implications faced by trafficked young women and girls along the West Africa corridors. As a public benefit organization, we have encountered many trafficking victims and provided medical consultations and treatment. According to the UNODC report, human trafficking continues to target the most vulnerable, reflecting both persistent and emerging trends. Women and girls remain the largest share of detected victims worldwide, accounting for 61% of the total in 2022, with most continuing to be trafficked for sexual exploitation, a pattern that has persisted for many years. In parallel, the number of children among detected victims is growing rapidly and alarmingly, increasing by one third over the span of three years. In particular, the number of girls detected has surged by 38%. In several regions, children now account for the majority of detected trafficking victims.

Appointed Partner to the NIH-Funded S-ITEST Project

PROFOH Nigeria has been appointed by the Nigerian Institute of Medical Research (NIMR) as a partner for the implementation of the S-ITEST Program in the Niger Delta region of Nigeria, covering five Local Government Areas. The purpose of this appointment is to support communities through enhanced access to crucial, evidence-based HIV prevention services, including HIV self-testing (HIVST), testing for sexually transmitted infections (STIs), pre-exposure prophylaxis (PrEP), and facilitated linkage to treatment. As an appointed partner, PROFOH's responsibilities, among other things, include the following activities:

1. Mobilization and awareness
2. Capacity building
3. Implementation and monitoring
4. Reporting and documentation

The project is implemented in collaboration with several universities in the United States, including Washington University in St. Louis and the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. These institutions designed the project to develop new strategies for sustaining the 4YBY program in Nigeria.

Commemorated World Tuberculosis Day

The day is set aside to raise public awareness about the devastating health, social, and economic consequences of TB and to step up efforts to end the global TB epidemic. The date marks the day in 1882 when Dr. Robert Koch announced the discovery of the bacterium that causes TB, opening the way toward diagnosing and curing the disease.

Tuberculosis (TB) is a highly misunderstood disease that rarely makes headlines, despite being the deadliest infectious disease in the world, killing roughly one person every 90 seconds. People in developed nations have largely not had to worry about TB because there is a cure. However, many people in low- and middle-income countries do not have the same access to treatment and cannot afford the luxury of ignoring the disease. In these countries, the risk of contracting or dying from TB is over 80% higher.

TB is deadly, and some scientists have described its transmission as bearing similarities to COVID-19, as it spreads when infected people cough, talk, or even exhale. TB does not always make someone immediately ill; it can take months or even years to become active. When it does, TB hits hardest among the most marginalized populations – people who are more likely to be vulnerable due to other conditions such as malnutrition or HIV and AIDS.

Celebrated World Humanitarian Day

We celebrated World Humanitarian Day, a theme that aims to highlight the urgent need to protect humanitarian workers and ensure they can safely deliver aid to those in need. The day, observed on August 19, recognizes the contributions of humanitarian workers and the importance of their work in conflict zones and disaster areas. It also calls for greater action to protect aid workers and to hold those who attack them accountable.

World Humanitarian Day serves as a powerful reminder that protecting those who help others is not only a moral imperative but also a critical element in ensuring the well-being and survival of people in need. In line with our mandate to serve humanity, PROFOH provided financial support to the United Nations Office for the Coordination of Humanitarian Affairs (OCHA) and the World Health Organization in June 2025.

PROFOH would like to sincerely thank the United States as the world's leading international humanitarian donor, followed by the European Union in second place, and we call on other countries to emulate their commitment.

World Cervical Cancer Elimination Day

For more than two decades, our organization has been on the front lines in the fight against cervical cancer. This preventable disease has been a key priority of PROFOH's work across Africa long before the establishment of Global Elimination Day. PROFOH is very proud of its partnership efforts; together with Gynius Plus, Sweden, and the Kenya Cancer Care and Research Centre, Kenya, we have screened more than 90,000 women between 2021 and July 2025 in Rwanda, Kenya, and Nigeria.

To enable our organization to scale up this fight, PROFOH signed strategic partnership MOUs in 2021 with several international organizations, including Cure Cervical Cancer, Inc., Colorado, USA; Kenya Cancer Care and Research Centre, Nairobi, Kenya; Gynius Plus AB, Gothenburg, Sweden; Bio Collect Sp. Zoo, Warsaw, Poland; Wutene, Inc., Georgia, USA; Up-Health Foundation, Limbe, Cameroon; iCare365 Corp, Guangzhou, China; Faith Gardens Medical Foundation International, Inc., Texas, USA; and, most recently, Nude Health, London.

World Mental Health Day

Our participation in this year's World Mental Health Day was marked by the theme "It Is Time to Prioritize Mental Health in the Workplace." This theme highlights various aspects of mental health at work, ranging from workplace conditions and stress management to the importance of social inclusion and empowerment. We encouraged everyone, including PROFOH members, to take simple actions on this day, such as expressing gratitude, participating in mindfulness activities, and being a source of social support, among others.

PROFOH is a ranking member of coalitions of organizations committed to addressing mental health issues globally, led by UNICEF. We also participated in events organized by UNICEF, with participants joining from Armenia, Belize, Nepal, and Sierra Leone to witness how innovation and creativity are being used to tackle mental health challenges. In addition, another impactful event was organized by the UN Global Compact and the Coalition, featuring business leaders who discussed the importance of caregiver mental health in the workplace and its impact on child and youth mental health. Ultimately, prioritizing mental health in the workplace is not just a one-day event; it is an ongoing commitment that benefits everyone.

Universal Health Coverage Day

In September 2023, PROFOH actively participated in the Universal Health Coverage Stakeholders Meeting held at the United Nations Headquarters in New York. Understandably, this day is a priority for our organization. It all began on 12 December 2012, when the United Nations General Assembly (UNGA) unanimously endorsed a resolution urging countries to accelerate progress toward universal health coverage (UHC) as an essential priority for international development. Since then, the day has become the annual rallying point for the global movement for Health for All. The theme for the 2025 observance – “Unaffordable health costs? We are sick of it...” – underscores the commitment made by countries to ensure that by 2030 everyone will receive the quality health services they need without suffering financial hardship. Recognizing the need for greater collaboration and harmonization across health stakeholders and programmes, the Coalition of Partnerships for UHC and Global Health unites health leaders and advocates around a common goal of aligning advocacy and accountability.

On UHC Day, PROFOH raised awareness of the need for strong and resilient health systems and universal health coverage. Each year on 12.12, UHC advocates raise their voices to share the stories of millions of people worldwide who are still waiting for access to health services, to call on leaders to make bigger and smarter investments in health, and to remind the world that Health for All is a human right and an imperative for creating equitable and resilient societies. In addition, we conducted hospital visits, patient assessments, and training sessions for non-clinical staff at the hospitals visited.

World Health Day

We fully supported the WHO theme “Healthy Beginnings, Hopeful Futures” for World Health Day 2025. This year’s campaign focuses on maternal and newborn health, urging governments and health organizations to prioritize efforts to reduce preventable maternal and newborn deaths. It also emphasizes the importance of long-term well-being for mothers and babies.

We also reaffirm that we are champions of the right of everyone, everywhere, to have access to quality health services, education, and information, as well as safe drinking water, clean air, good nutrition, quality housing, decent working and environmental conditions, and freedom from discrimination.

On the occasion of World Health Day, which falls on 7 April each year, the World Health Organization notes that, based on currently published estimates, close to 300,000 women lose their lives due to pregnancy or childbirth each year, while over 2 million babies die in their first month of life and around 2 million more are stillborn – roughly one preventable death every seven seconds. As we continue working toward promoting Universal Health Coverage globally, alongside our core areas of education, water, and environment.

PROFOH's partnership with Dr. Paul Odumu, a ranking member of PROFOH, has been instrumental in several medical missions conducted by the organization, including those in Kaduna and Taraba. Dr. Paul is also the President of Odumehaje Christian Medical Mission (OCMM). This mission was led by Dr. Paul and took place in Ibeju-Lekki, Lagos State, South-West Nigeria, from February through March, in collaboration with Awoyaya Hospital and Ministries Summit International.

It was a highly successful outreach by every measure, with a total of 2,196 people impacted. The breakdown included 41 volunteers engaged, coverage of more than 40 communities, 423 outpatient (OPD) consultations, 431 pharmacy dispensations, 44 surgical procedures in the operating room, 35 dental operations, 28 dental care services, 64 laboratory investigations, 423 health promotion and health education sessions, 165 counseling sessions, and 500 "Messages of Hope," among other services.

In a related development, PROFOH has reached an advanced stage in scaling up manpower development through advanced intensive professional medical training and simulation programmes with a world-class hospital. This hospital has been ranked by Newsweek magazine as one of the World's Best Hospitals. Details will be disclosed once discussions are finalized. The institution is renowned for its commitment to clinical excellence and compassionate, patient-centred care, applying the most advanced technologies and medical innovations. It collaborates with prominent medical institutions and universities worldwide, working in close synergy with industry leaders and high-tech innovators to develop new medical technologies, justifying its international recognition and acclaim as one of the world's leading medical institutions.

EPE LAGOS -NIGERIA

PROFOH provided technical support for the Epe medical mission in collaboration with WCEO, BFGO, and churches across the Local Government Area in Lagos, Nigeria. The theme of the mission was "Reaching the Unreached with Gospel and Health Care." The mission was driven by the need to provide quality care to some of the most neglected communities in Lagos, the commercial capital of Nigeria and the second-largest city economy on the African continent after Cairo. Since our inception as an organization, Lagos State has benefited from our interventions more than any other state, with missions conducted in Surulere, Ikorodu, Ijodu, Okota, Lekki, Onikan, Shomolu, and many other locations.

The PROFOH team was led by the organization's Lagos State Coordinator, Oluwafisayo Bummi Bioku, a pharmacist of international standing. Based on feedback received from patients, she conducted the mission with exceptional dedication and professionalism. The venue was set up with a simple and efficient layout, and all project deliverables were completed. The mission was successfully carried out, providing safe and effective healthcare services to over 250 individuals.

Improved awareness and understanding demonstrated by patients during interactive engagement was highly gratifying, alongside visibly increased confidence and a significant reduction in patient anxiety. The medical outreach provided easy access to quality healthcare and well-being for more than 250 individuals. The medical team delivered care safely and effectively, using the facilities of All Saints Anglican Church.

CAPE COAST-GHANA

Elisand Care Foundation and PROFOH conducted a highly successful medical mission, tagged SMILE 2025, held in Cape Coast, Ghana. As always, the mission was designed to benefit underprivileged and vulnerable Ghanaians burdened by general medical conditions but unable to afford the high cost of quality healthcare. For decades, PROFOH has brought succour to thousands of Ghanaians through medical missions, manpower development, donations of medical equipment, education missions, and book donations. These efforts have ranged from Manna Mission Hospital in Teshie, Accra, to St. Moses Hospital in Poukasse, as well as donations of medical equipment and face masks to several public hospitals in Accra, including Ridge Hospital. Other medical missions have taken place in Ho in the Volta Region, Winneba Regional Hospital in the Central Region, and many other locations.

PROFOH is very proud of the commitment demonstrated by the Elisand Care Foundation, as the outreach included the distribution of more than 130 Christmas hampers and the renewal of National Health Insurance Scheme (NHIS) policies for more than 130 families. The mission also served more than 185 eye patients, with over 300 patients screened and treated. In total, 210 individuals accessed NHIS services (23 new registrations and 187 renewals), and two persons with disabilities each received cash business support of GHS 1,000.

OHAFIA ABIA STATE-NIGERIA

The partnership between PROFOH and the End Hunger Initiative has been operating at full capacity for over three years. Both organizations have jointly provided food support to several families in the past, and this year the interventions were further scaled up. This mission took place in the Ohafia community in Abia State, South-East Nigeria, approximately 700 km from Lagos. A medical mission was conducted alongside the distribution of food items such as rice, beans, fruits, and vegetables. More than 100 families were attended to, excluding several glaucoma cases. The distribution of food items proved to be as critical as healthcare delivery to the community, with hundreds of 25 kg bags of rice distributed to elderly citizens.

Our relationship with Abia State spans many years. PROFOH's founding member, Cliff Henry Jarrell, an American missionary, began his service to humanity in Nigeria more than three decades ago at the Nigerian Christian Hospital (NCH), where he served as a hospital administrator. In fact, PROFOH was conceived out of necessity to support the Nigerian people and to develop volunteer-driven healthcare delivery. Looking ahead to 2026, another medical mission is planned in partnership with the Aba South Local Government and the End Hunger Initiative.

IMPLEMENTATION OF TUBERCULOSIS PROJECT IN PORT HARCOURT- NIGERIA

Our organization has been a ranking member of the WHO Stop TB Partnership for nearly two decades. With extensive experience in the fight against TB, PROFOH has been conducting targeted TB eradication and awareness projects in Nigeria since 2014 and was elected to chair the Coalition of Civil Society Organizations (CSOs) working toward the eradication of TB in Rivers State, Nigeria. This particular project is implemented under the TB Network of Nigeria, an umbrella body of CSOs coordinating tuberculosis-focused activities nationwide. The goal is simple: a TB-free Nigeria. The TB Network serves as a Technical Service Organization (TSO) to the Institute of Human Virology – Nigeria (IHVN), an agency under the Federal Ministry of Health (FMOH), supported by the Global Fund GC7 Grant Cycle.

This TB implementation project is currently taking place across 11 of Nigeria's 36 states, including the Federal Capital Territory (FCT), Abuja. The project is driven by Community-Led Monitoring (CLM), which is central to the overall implementation and serves as a tool to promote accountability, foster sustainability, and deepen community ownership. By leveraging the grassroots reach and local expertise of Community-Based Organizations (CBOs), CLM ensures that services are responsive, inclusive, and grounded in the realities of those most affected.

Under the grant, the engagement of CBOs aims to strengthen Community-Led Monitoring data collection, improve representation of key community members, and promote community ownership and data utilization at the local level. It also seeks to empower community members, CBOs, and TB survivors to drive inclusive TB responses across the states of implementation. By leveraging community-led monitoring and the collective strength of CBOs, this initiative aims to drive positive change in Nigeria's health landscape, leading to improved health outcomes and the well-being of all communities.

The PROFOH Chair has conveyed special appreciation to the entire implementation team, led by Mr. Muzan Messiah, South-South Coordinator, and Ms. Precious I. Mukel, State Coordinator.

In a related development, the UK Government announced a pledge of £850 million to the Global Fund to Fight AIDS, Tuberculosis and Malaria, ahead of the 8th Replenishment Summit scheduled before the end of 2025.

EDUCATION:

TRAINING OF 500 STUDENTS AT MEKNES- MOROCCO

The long-standing strategic partnership between PROFOH and the European Centre for Leadership and Entrepreneurship Education (ECLEE) has been profound, as both organizations share the same values. ECLEE is an independent training, education, and research institution based in Lille, France, and specializes in curriculum innovation, continuing education, and workforce development.

The large-scale training programme was conducted at Moulay Ismail University, a public higher education and non-profit scientific research institution located in Meknès, Morocco. Established in 1989 with only a few hundred students, the university now has a student population of nearly 90,000 and maintains over 320 global partnerships. Through the ECLEE/PROFOH partnership, training and certification were sponsored for 500 African students enrolled at Moulay Ismail University, Meknès, Morocco. These 500 students would not otherwise have been able to afford the tuition fees for the specialized training and certification. The students expressed their profound appreciation to all the organizations involved.

ECLEE is a French/EU-accredited Vocational Education and Training Centre, incorporated in France, with offices and operations in the USA, Asia, and Africa. The Memorandum of Understanding (MOU) will foster educational development, particularly in the areas of capacity building, lean healthcare training, professional certification, and poverty reduction activities for global benefit. Both organizations are already preparing to move swiftly into implementation, including training plans and free medical outreach programmes in several African countries.

The partnership plan outlines a comprehensive training and certification programme in Lean Healthcare, utilizing curricula developed by the renowned Lean Advancement Initiative and Lean Academy of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT) in the United States.

INTERNATIONAL DAY TO PROTECT EDUCATION FROM ATTACK- NEPAL

PROFOH, a ranking member of the Inter-Agency Network for Education in Emergencies (INEE), hereby endorsed the official statement of INEE and the Alliance. On the International Day to Protect Education from Attack, PROFOH and its partners condemned all forms of attacks on education and called on all parties to conflict to respect international humanitarian law, protect schools from attack and military use, and ensure that children can continue their education in safe and protective learning environments. Schools, students, and teachers are not targets.

From 2023 to 2024, and continuing into 2025, there has been an alarming increase in attacks on education, with schools deliberately targeted and destroyed. According to this year's Report of the Secretary-General on Children and Armed Conflict, grave violations against children increased by 25% from 2023 to 2024.

Globally, 234 million school-age children are affected by conflict, with 85 million children completely out of school due to destruction, attacks, and displacement. This must stop. When education facilities are destroyed, it is not only physical buildings that are lost, but also the hopes, dreams, and aspirations of thousands of children. For many children affected by conflict and crisis, school is one of the few places where they feel safe and protected. It is a place where they receive not only education, but also psychosocial support, opportunities to safely socialize with peers, and, in some cases, access to food, immunizations, clean water, and sanitation.

Together, we call on parties to conflict to ensure that children's rights, as enshrined in the Convention on the Rights of the Child, are respected, that international humanitarian law is upheld, and that schools remain safe from attack and military use, with students and teachers protected as civilians. We also call on states to recognize and endorse the Safe Schools Declaration and Guidelines, now in their tenth year, committing to keeping schools, teachers, and students safe and accessible during conflict.

PROFOH AT FfD4 SEVILLA-SPAIN

PROFOH actively participated in the Fourth International Conference on Financing for Development (FfD4) in Sevilla, Spain. PROFOH is also a member of the NGO Global Committee on Financing for Development (FfD4). Our participation sent a strong message of hope in support of humanity's global goals to end poverty.

The International Conference concluded with 130 initiatives translating the Sevilla Commitment, or "Compromiso de Sevilla", into action through concrete steps to boost investment in sustainable development, address the debt crisis affecting many of the world's poorest countries, and give developing countries a stronger voice in the international financing architecture. "The human consequences of rising debt burdens, escalating trade tensions, and steep cuts to official development assistance have been brought into sharp relief," said United Nations Deputy Secretary-General Amina Mohammed in her closing remarks. "Yet, against this sobering backdrop, the Sevilla Conference delivered a strong response – a unifying outcome document focused on solutions that reaffirms the Addis Ababa commitments made a decade ago, renews hope through the SDGs, and shows that multilateral cooperation still matters and still works. FfD4 will be remembered as a conference where the world chose cooperation over fragmentation, unity over division, and action over inertia."

The "Compromiso de Sevilla" stands as a testament to collective resolve, outlining the commitments, solutions, and actions needed to get back on track toward achieving the Sustainable Development Goals. The Sevilla Commitment, adopted by consensus at the start of the Conference, lays out a pathway to close the USD 4 trillion annual SDG financing gap in developing countries. It is the first inter-governmentally agreed financing-for-development framework since 2015 and serves as a rallying call to overhaul a system that is failing billions of people and pushing global goals further out of reach. At a time of rising debt, declining investment, shrinking aid, and escalating trade tensions, sustainable development faces unprecedented headwinds. The consequences are stark: Three billion people live in countries that spend more on interest payments than on health or education.

PROFOH was more than an active participant at this year's Founders Summit, organized by Entrepreneur University Germany and held in Wiesbaden. The 2025 theme was "Find Your Greatness." The Founders Summit is Germany's largest conference, with more than 8,000 participants. Speakers, entrepreneurs, and successful leaders from across the globe took to the stage to share their stories, strategies, insights, and mentorship experiences.

The PROFOH delegation was led by our Global Board Member, Julia von Noroczinski, who highlighted the organization's service to humanity over the past 26 years. On this occasion, the PROFOH Board expressed its profound gratitude for her dedication and service to humanity over the past decade.

Furthermore, Julia noted in her report that the takeaways from the conference were numerous. The core themes of the Summit – social innovation, equal access to education, and global responsibility – closely align with PROFOH's mission. She highlighted the potential for future collaboration with Entrepreneur University, which could create strong synergies, including joint educational and awareness campaigns, support for social entrepreneurship projects in the Global South, and targeted knowledge exchange between young founders and experienced humanitarian professionals.

The Founders Summit 2025 was not just an ordinary event; it was a gathering of people striving to connect business with humanity. PROFOH has already seized this momentum to build bridges between innovation and global good in collaboration with Entrepreneur University. We look forward to the next summit, and PROFOH Germany has also reached out to Entrepreneur University to explore a formal partnership.

PROFOH AT WORLD BANK LAND CONFERENCE- WASHINGTON DC – USA

The 2025 annual theme cut across multiple sectors. The thematic and research sessions highlighted all aspects of land and climate, including agriculture and food security and insecurity. In line with its organizational policy, PROFOH aims to scale up its commitment to poverty reduction activities over the next five years. This year's Land Conference was organized by the World Bank in collaboration with the governments of the United Kingdom, the Netherlands, Germany, the United States, and other partners.

The Conference has long served as a premier global forum for the land sector, bringing together more than 1,000 participants from governments, development partners, civil society, academia, and the private sector to showcase policy-relevant research, discuss technical issues, and share sector good practices. The conference highlighted approaches to improving land governance and securing land tenure to address climate change and other global development goals. It also encouraged cross-sectoral knowledge exchange and has incubated numerous investments, initiatives, and research projects led by diverse stakeholders. In addition, sessions on Land Administration for Climate Action and Disaster Resilience featured effective strategies for governing land access for climate-resilient transportation and renewable energy investments.

The World Bank Land Conference remains a prominent global forum focused on land governance and its impact on development outcomes. The 2025 conference, held from 5–8 May, gathered more than 1,000 participants from diverse sectors to showcase research, discuss technical issues, and share best practices. The event emphasized strategies to enhance land tenure security and land administration worldwide, with a particular focus on climate change, economic growth, and poverty reduction. PROFOH was represented at this important event by its Executive Director, Dr. Gbemuotor Kama.

PROFOH AT WORLD SOCIAL SUMMIT - DOHA QATAR

ROFOH was specially invited to the Second World Summit for Social Development, where world leaders gathered in Doha, Qatar, thirty years after the landmark Copenhagen Summit. The World Social Summit advanced key commitments of the Pact for the Future, ranging from scaling up investments in youth and strengthening financing for development to redefining progress through the Beyond GDP agenda and deepening engagement with local and regional governments.

The Doha Political Declaration, adopted at the Summit, reaffirmed commitments made in the Pact for the Future and called for a renewed global partnership that leaves no one behind. While priorities thirty years ago differed from today's realities, the Summit addressed current global challenges through concrete initiatives.

Highlights from the Summit included the following initiatives: scaling up investments in youth for social justice and decent work, which introduced the Global Youth Investment Platform (GYIP), a new Pact-mandated initiative designed to channel financing into youth-led and youth-serving programmes. This session, co-organized by the UN Youth Office, the International Labour Organization (ILO), and the Team for Pact Implementation, mobilized political and multi-stakeholder support to expand decent work, social protection, and opportunities for young people.

Another key initiative focused on boosting domestic public resources to finance social development, advancing the Sevilla Commitment adopted at the Fourth International Conference on Financing for Development. This initiative emphasized practical approaches to strengthening domestic public resources and public financial management as essential tools for inclusive growth and social protection.

The Summit also featured the initiative "Youth Leading the Way: Re-imagining the Future of Child and Youth Mental Health and Well-being," which launched a Joint Call to Strengthen Policy and Investment for Child and Youth Mental Health. Led by the UN Youth Office in collaboration with WHO, UNICEF, and UNESCO, the call outlines actions to make mental health a global policy and investment priority, embed youth participation in policy-making, and integrate mental health into broader development agendas.

PROFOH AT THE IMF/WORLD BANK GROUP MEETINGS - WASHINGTON DC - USA

For the most part, PROFOH's participation in this year's Spring Meetings was driven by a focus on healthcare delivery, socialized medicine in developing countries, and global poverty reduction efforts. The International Monetary Fund (IMF) and the World Bank Group (WBG) play a key role in the global effort to end extreme poverty and boost shared prosperity. One of the ways these institutions advance these goals is by calling on citizens from around the world to collaborate on issues related to poverty reduction, international economic development and finance, human capital development, and resilience-building.

The primary opportunity to raise awareness, encourage participation on these topics, and advance the agenda on key issues is through the Spring and Annual Meetings.

The Executive Director of PROFOH led the organization's delegation to this year's Meetings in Washington, DC, with other members joining from Germany, Ghana, Nigeria, and the United Kingdom. The primary objectives of the delegation were to engage on humanitarian interests and interventions with global financial institutions and civil society organizations, and to explore opportunities for attracting support for developing country agendas, particularly in the education and healthcare sectors.

PROFOH AT CHINA ASIA-PACIFIC ERA YOUTH INTERNATIONAL COOPERATION COMMITTEE

PROFOH's Dr. Emeka Agwu was a guest speaker at the unveiling ceremony of the China Asia-Pacific New Era Youth International Cooperation Committee (CAPYIC), held in Beijing. The event marked the official launch of an international cooperation organization focused on building a community with a shared future for humankind, with particular emphasis on the role of young people in development and global governance.

This cooperation initiative aims to foster mutual understanding, promote cultural exchange, and facilitate collaboration across multiple areas, including economic development, technological advancement, and the addressing of global challenges. The organizers envision a future in which countries in the Asia-Pacific region, and the world at large, cooperate for mutual benefit and progress, with young people playing a crucial role.

Key areas of focus included people-to-people exchange, encouraging cultural exchanges, educational opportunities, and volunteerism to strengthen ties among youth; global governance, involving young people in international organizations to address global issues, promote peace, and foster sustainable development; and collective action on global challenges such as climate change, public health, and poverty reduction, recognizing the importance of youth participation in identifying and implementing solutions.

The programme engages young people in community service and social development, promoting volunteerism and social responsibility. This platform facilitates exchanges and cooperation with international youth organizations.

The United Nations Development Programme (UNDP) supports various initiatives in the Asia-Pacific region focused on youth leadership, social innovation, and entrepreneurship. More than 200 people attended the unveiling ceremony, including ambassadors of several Asia-Pacific countries to China, overseas student representatives, youth representatives, and guests from all walks of life. The programme encourages young people to visit, study, and work in one another's countries, facilitating cultural exchange and building personal connections.

Educational and cultural cooperation is another crucial component of the initiative. This includes joint research projects, student exchange programmes, and cultural festivals, all of which foster mutual understanding and appreciation of diverse cultures.

PROFOH AT CAP IMPLEMENTATION WORKSHOP AND TRAINING ROME- ITALY

PROFOH's participation in this year's Common Alerting Protocol (CAP) Implementation Workshop and Training, scheduled to take place in October in Rome, Italy, was particularly noteworthy. This was due to the special online session our organization held with the organizers prior to the in-person meeting in Rome. PROFOH has been an active partner in this United Nations global initiative since 2021. We were also invited to the 2024 edition held in Belgium, and by all indications, the 2025 Workshop and Training was even larger and more impactful.

CAP, designated as International Telecommunication Union (ITU) Recommendation X.1303, is widely recognized as the key standard enabling societies to achieve all-hazards, all-media public alerting for emergencies. Currently, 94% of the world's population lives in a country that either already has, or is actively implementing, at least one CAP alert feed at the national level. The annual Workshop serves as a forum for CAP implementers and associated organizations to discuss how best to further leverage adoption of the CAP standard and to share practices among CAP users.

This Workshop and Training was hosted by the National Fire Corps of Italy and Alert-Hub.org. It was co-sponsored by the International Association of Emergency Managers (IAEM) and OASIS, the international standards organization that maintains the CAP standard. The Chair of the CAP 2025 event, Prof. Christian Elliott, conducted a special online training session for PROFOH members in May 2025. Finally, it is worth noting that our organization was among a selected few that responded positively to the United Nations Secretary-General's call to endorse the Global Digital Compact.

FINANCIAL SUPPORT:

PROFOH SUPPORTED UNITED NATIONS AGENCIES

Photo: Official Logos of both United Nations Agencies supported by PROFOH Financially

PROFOH's relationship with the United Nations began immediately after the organization was established in 1998. UNICEF, under the leadership of Dr. Stella Goings, Chief of Nutrition at the Nigeria Office, was the first UN agency to support PROFOH during its initial disaster intervention following the Jesse Fire disaster, which claimed more than 10,000 lives in 1998 in Jesse Community, Delta State, Nigeria. The World Health Organization (WHO) also provided technical support.

Since 1998, PROFOH has sustained a strong spirit of friendship and collaboration within the United Nations system. Today, we work with several UN agencies, including the Stop TB Partnership in Geneva and the United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime (UNODC) in Vienna, and are accredited and affiliated with the United Nations OSAA-OEWG on Ageing. This includes participation in several high-level meetings on Universal Health Coverage and other related initiatives.

PROFOH is also a member of the UN Partner Portal, a platform designed to facilitate harmonized, efficient, and effective collaboration between the United Nations and its partners, enabling Civil Society Organizations (CSOs) to engage with the UN system.

Building on these partnerships, PROFOH has provided financial support to the United Nations Office for the Coordination of Humanitarian Affairs (OCHA) and the World Health Organization. In response to evolving needs, PROFOH members in Switzerland have intensified the process of incorporation in that country, in line with WHO guidance. The WHO Foundation is a Swiss foundation established pursuant to Article 80 and following articles of the Swiss Civil Code, located at 2, Chemin des Mines, 1202 Geneva, Switzerland (IDE CHE-379.253.554). Donors based in Switzerland and Luxembourg may benefit from tax deductions upon submission of the enclosed donation payment confirmation.

The PROFOH Board urges members and supporters to continue their support. Thank you for standing with us during last year's crises and for helping us bring about meaningful change. None of this would have been possible without the support of committed partners and individuals. According to OCHA, this collective support has enabled the delivery of life-saving assistance where it was needed most. Families in Gaza received thousands of tents, tarpaulins, and hot meals; in Sudan, more than 1.1 million people received food, clean water, healthcare, shelter, and protection, while schools reopened for 25,000 children; and in Ukraine, vulnerable households received heating support and shelter repairs to survive the winter. Ahead of Hurricane Melissa, early warning systems and pre-positioned food stocks safeguarded millions across the Caribbean.

APPOINTMENTS:

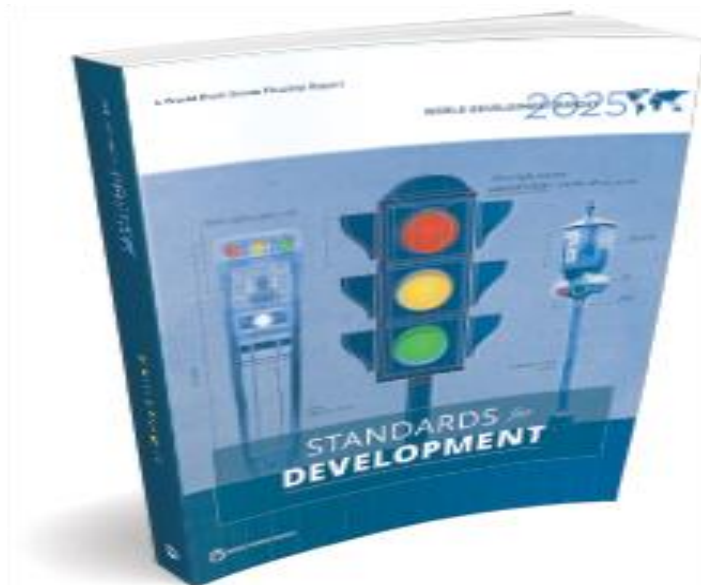

Photo: Michael Le Havre, Chair PROFOH UK Lorene Copeland, Senior consultant, Julia von Noroczinski as Board member PROFOH Germany.

PROFOH officially formalized the appointment of three distinguished global citizens. Mr. Michael Le Havre was appointed Chair of the proposed PROFOH UK Board. We are pleased that a committed advocate for development has joined our Board to strengthen PROFOH's work in the EU and beyond. Mr. Le Havre has been a long-serving member of the organization for more than a decade, with experience spanning several countries. In his acceptance remarks, he stated, "I am very grateful to join the PROFOH team. This is very important to me and my family." We are confident that he will contribute his extensive experience in international development, particularly in projects and finance, across countries such as the UK, Poland, and Nigeria.

The appointment of Lorene Copeland as Global Coordinator and Senior Consultant for Project Development and Donations was significant, as this role was created for the first time. However, her selection was not a surprise to many in London who know her well. Lorene is recognized for her knowledge and kindness, and is known to be mechanically minded, with a methodical approach to assignments and a strong eagerness to learn and develop new skills. This has been a key factor in her success. A multi-talented professional with a strong background in management, she has an impressive track record, having managed 12 schools within Westminster, London.

Ms. Julia von Noroczinski was appointed as a Board Member of PROFOH Germany. She has worked behind the scenes for several years, providing continuous support to PROFOH. We are honoured to have such an experienced and committed Board Member. She has already hit the ground running, representing the organization at the Founders Summit organized by Entrepreneur University Germany in Wiesbaden and more recently in Berlin. She is now a member of the highest decision-making body of PROFOH in Germany. In this role, Julia will be responsible for leadership, policy direction, development of growth strategies, fundraising, and humanitarian interventions in developing countries.

BOOKS:

Standards make everyday life run smoothly. You rarely notice them: The credit card that works in any corner of the world, the Wi-Fi signal that connects a remote village to the cloud, or the vaccine vial that fits syringes from Dakar to Delhi. When standards work, they build trust. They free people and firms to focus on creating, trading, and innovating, confident that the systems around them will hold. When standards fail, the effects are immediate and draining. Payments are declined, signals drop, vaccines spoil—and instead of being productive, people spend their energy simply meeting their basic needs.

Standards, in short, are the hidden infrastructure of modern economies—and they have never been more important. Developing countries today must contend with a thicket of increasingly stringent international standards, a product of globalization and rapid technological change. Using standards—and shaping them—is now a prerequisite for export growth, technology diffusion, and the efficient delivery of public services. Yet standards are too often overlooked by policymakers, especially in developing countries.

The World Development Report 2025 provides the most comprehensive assessment of the global landscape of standards today and how they can be used to accelerate economic development. It offers a practical framework for countries at all stages of development. Countries at the earliest stages should adapt international standards to suit local conditions when needed, while those at more advanced stages should aim to align domestic markets with international standards. Meanwhile, all countries should contribute to the development of international standards in priority areas.
